

June 29, 2005

ANNOUNCEMENT

We had alerted you before the June 1 receipt date that a bug in eCGAP Production was causing budget figures on the form pages 4 and 5 of the grant image, as well as on the modular budget justification page, to come in with decimal precision to two places. As a result, on the modular budget pages, the numbers are wrapping so that part of the number appears on the next line.

For instance, the number $200,000.00 will appear as:

$200,000.0

0

The eCGAP Team had hoped to have the issue fixed for the July 1 receipt date. Unfortunately, that fix will not be in place for that date. However, we want to assure you that the Center for Scientific Review will alert reviewers to the problem, just as they did for the June 1 cycle.

We apologize for this situation. Rest assured that even though the numbers may wrap around, this is not going to affect the review of your application. This is more a formatting issue, not a content one.